This is not an exhaustive list and is an attempt to translate the thoughts we tell ourselves to actual feelings and needs, with the aim of self-connection and connection with the other. You may notice that these are all feelings when needs seem to be unmet. There is a whole other chart of feelings when needs seem to be met.

***Please note that needs of Respect, Justice, Appreciation, Accountability, and To Be Valued (and others) must all be handled with care. They can often be used as a judgment. It is important to be self-responsible when naming these needs are not met for you/others instead of assigning blame. We fully have the capacity to meet our own needs within, and in community we make doable requests to meet those needs together in power with each other.
